

Australian Council of Social Service

20 June 2018

Senator Patrick Dodson

Chair

Committee on Constitutional Recognition Relating to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples

PO Box 6021

Parliament House

Canberra ACT 2600

Dear Senator Dodson,

Thank you for providing the Australian Council of Social Service with the opportunity to make a submission on the constitutional recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.

ACOSS is a national advocate for action to reduce poverty and inequality and the peak body for the community services sector in Australia. Our vision is for a fair, inclusive and sustainable Australia where all individuals and communities can participate in and benefit from social and economic life.

Following a rigorous and comprehensive consultation period, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples made their views very clear in the ‘Uluru Statement from the Heart’, calling for the establishment of a ‘First Nations Voice’ in the Australian Constitution and a ‘Makarrata Commission’ to supervise a process of ‘agreement-making’ and ‘truth-telling’ between governments and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. ACOSS believes it was deeply disrespectful for our Federal leaders to have unilaterally rejected those views.

There is also broad agreement among the general Australian community for constitutional reform regarding the rightful place of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in our country. A 2017 national survey found that over 70 per cent of Australians surveyed support First Nations peoples’ constitutional recognition, with 60.7 per cent supporting the Voice to Parliament proposal.<sup>1</sup>

ACOSS, in consultation with National Congress of Australia’s First Peoples, Dr Fiona Stanley, Julian Burnside, Hon Alastair Nicholson and others, produced a joint statement in support of the Uluru Statement of the Heart. The statement calls on the Australian Parliament to make First Nations peoples voice a national priority. ‘Support First Nations’ targeted non-Indigenous Australians and garnered over 10,000 signatories from key organisations and individuals (including anonymous signatories) in a matter of weeks.

We call the Federal Government and Parliament to listen to the voices of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and put constitutional recognition of ‘First Nations Voice’ and the treaty commission at the top of their agenda.

<sup>1</sup> AJ Brown, Paul Kildea, John Parkinson, Australian Constitutional Values Survey 2017, Results Release 2, October 2017, accessed on 20 June 2018 at <https://app.secure.griffith.edu.au/news/wp-content/uploads/2017/10/Griffith-University-UNSW-Australian-Constitutional-Values-Survey-Sept-2017-Results-2.pdf>.

Although we cannot change our past, we can determine our country's future. A better future can only start when our Federal Government finally respects the wishes of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and allows the wider Australian community to listen and to seize this historic opportunity to deliver on the rights of Australia's Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

I have attached the 'Support First Nations' Statement, and call on the Committee to recommend in full the Statement's call for the establishment of a First Nations Voice enshrined in the Constitution, as well as a Makarrata Commission to supervise a process of agreement-making between governments and First Nations.

Yours sincerely,

Dr Cassandra Goldie
Chief Executive Officer, ACOSS

JOINT STATEMENT

A call to the Prime Minister and Australian Parliament

We support First Nations peoples to have a voice. We call on the Australian Parliament to make this a national priority.

We represent non-Indigenous Australians whose hearts and minds were filled with hope as First Nations voices called for acknowledgement in the Constitution and recommended treaties to bring about structural reform for socio-economic improvement.

There have been many consultations and reports over many years, with the latest being the Uluru Statement from the Heart.

The Uluru Statement from the Heart calls for 'constitutional reforms to empower our people and take a rightful place in our own country'. It calls for a constitutionally guaranteed advisory body to provide advice to Parliament. The proposed body has no voting rights and will not alter the make-up of the Australian Parliament, but it will, for the first time, give First Nations peoples a voice to Parliament. It also seeks a Makarrata Commission to commence treaty negotiations engaging with all Australian governments and more active steps for 'truth telling about our history'.

We are concerned about the negative response from the Australian Government to the Uluru Statement from the Heart.

Many First Nations peoples that we know and respect are again experiencing a governmental rejection of their views.

First Nations voices are the only ones who can truly explain and ameliorate the historical intergenerational traumas, the marginalisation, the hurts and all their consequences.

We are concerned this inability to listen and work constructively with First Nations peoples potentially compounds intergenerational traumas and their consequences.

Evidence from many studies, here and overseas, shows when First Nations peoples are empowered, the adverse consequences of their marginalisation are more effectively addressed.

We urge governments to support institutional reform to hear to the multiplicity of First Nations voices and allow them to bring a rich and varied range of proposals for constructive change to the table.

Many of us have seen the devastatingly negative effects of successive federal, state and territory policies imposed on First Nations peoples; peoples who consistently remind us they are the best able to address the current situation affecting them, their families and communities.

We strongly support progressing Australia's First Nations peoples' right to a say in the decisions that affect their lives.

First Nations peoples make up the first sovereign nations of Australia with evidence of their presence in Australia for over 60,000 years. This sovereignty was 'never ceded or extinguished and co-exists with the sovereignty of the crown'. However, it is yet to be rightfully acknowledged and First Nations peoples are not mentioned in the Constitution.

We agree with the Uluru Statement of the Heart that "With substantial constitutional change and structural reform [our emphasis] this ancient sovereignty can shine through as a fuller expression of Australian nationhood". Such reforms must empower First Nations peoples and enable individuals, families, and children to flourish and consequently contribute inevitably to a more complete Australian society.

The Australian Government has been seeking support for recognition from both Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians over many years.

A national survey recently found over 70 per cent of Australians surveyed support First Nations peoples' constitutional recognition, with 60.7 per cent supporting the Voice to Parliament proposal, and the Uluru Statement from the Heart was 'endorsed by unprecedented Indigenous consensus'.

We urge the Australian Parliament to listen to First Nations peoples' recommendations in the Uluru Statement, and to back this attempt to improve their circumstances and participate more fully in Australian society.

We do not want Australia to continue on a path of policies and associated expenditure on interventions and activities that are proving ineffective in many situations.

Giving First Nations peoples a say in the decisions that affect their lives will provide an opportunity for doing things differently and more productively, by simply listening to the advice of people who are affected, and by allowing First Nations peoples to claim their rightful place in the nation.

We support First Nations peoples' Uluru Statement from the Heart. We call on the Australian Parliament to make this a national priority.

First Nations peoples includes all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in Australia.
